Energy

Energy is the ability to do work. Energy has the ability to cause motion or create a change. A relationship exists between energy, motion, and change. Basic forms of energy include heat, light, chemical, sound, mechanical, and electrical. How do these forms of energy cause change?

Heat energy causes change in matter. Heat can cause a physical change. The right amount of heat changes solids to liquids and liquids to gases. It can also cause a chemical change when cooking food. Tiny particles in eggs and meat change when they are cooked, and they cannot be changed back to their raw form.

Light energy causes change as well. Plants use light from the sun to make food in a process called photosynthesis. The light energy allows the plant to change carbon dioxide and water into food for the plant.

Chemical energy is energy stored in chemicals, such as food, batteries, or gasoline. Food has stored energy that is released during digestion. The food's chemical energy gives us the energy to run, jump, and play.

Have you ever felt a speaker? Sound energy causes vibrations in your parents' car speakers. If the music is loud enough, you can feel those vibrations when you touch the door or dashboard.

Mechanical energy is the energy of motion. It is stored at a position and released in motion. If you have ever observed a fidget spinner spinning, you have witnessed a change in the fidget spinner. The position changed due to mechanical energy.

Electrical energy causes changes that could be very dangerous. Lightning is an example of electrical energy. The electrical energy in lightning can cause trees to spilt in half or catch on fire.

Heat, light, chemical, sound, mechanical, and electrical energy have the ability to cause motion or create change. All changes happen because of some type of energy.

BENGAL TIGERS

Bengal Tigers are the most common type of tiger found in the world. They are currently endangered, which means there are not a lot of them left alive. There is actually less than 2,500 of these tigers left in the world. What can people do to help these tigers not become endangered?

WHERE THEY LIVE

Bengal Tigers live in the country called Asia, in the Southeast. Some can also be found in countries called India and China. They live in tropical rainforests, or places with lots of trees and rainfall.

Bengal Tigers are usually orange with white faces, and black stripes.

WHAT THEY EAT

Bengal Tigers eat many other types of animals, including monkeys, bears, antelopes, pigs, birds, and sometimes even baby elephants. Using their stripes, they stalk the animal they plan to eat, called their prey, and sneak up on it.

THEIR SIZE

Female and male Bengal Tigers grow up to be different sizes. Females usually weigh between 350 and 400 pounds, and males usually weight between 500 and 600 pounds. They can be anywhere from 5 to 10 feet long, that's almost double as tall as your teacher!

Glossary:

Endangered: at serious risk of extinction; dying out

Prey: an animal hunted or killed by another animal for food.

Schools Around the World

*All across the world, schools are trying to turn out the best and brightest.
Take a tour through these five school systems that span the globe.
You might be surprised to learn how unique each one actually is!*

China

- 1 There are more than 400 million students in China. With that many kids, it can't be too difficult to make a friend or two!
- 2 Chinese classes are very large. Often, one teacher is assigned to a class with more than 40 students. Children learn by repeating facts over and over again. Few schools have air conditioning or heating. In the winter, teachers and students are bundled up in heavy coats and gloves. Students practice daily eye exercises because it is believed to improve their vision.
- 3 The school year runs from the beginning of September until mid-July. The average school day begins at 7:30 a.m. and ends at 5 p.m. Students go home for a 2 hour lunch break and nap. After a dinner break (at home), middle school students return to school for a 2-hour evening session. High school evening sessions are longer and last until 11 p.m. Many Chinese students also attend classes on Saturday mornings where they receive lessons in math and science.
- 4 The work in Chinese high schools is very difficult. Students spend most of their high school years preparing for a test called the gaokao. The gaokao lasts for 2-3 days. The results of the test determine if the student will be accepted into college or not.

Iran

14 Libraries are exciting for many children in Iran because they aren't what you might expect. When school resources are lacking, the government offers mobile libraries to visit the schools and bring books to the children. Each bus holds two librarians and around 3,000 books. No official library card is necessary – just a desire to read!

15 The school year for all students is normally from September to June. The school day begins at 7:30 a.m. and ends at about 2 p.m. Students are required to attend elementary school for five years, and lower secondary school for an additional three years. Although upper secondary school is optional, the majority of Iranian students attend. The same curriculum is followed throughout the country and teachers spend the majority of the day giving long lectures.

Two librarians assist a female student on a mobile library.

16 Boys and girls learn in different classrooms. The girls have female teachers, and the boys have male teachers. Because the classes are segregated, Iranian girls are allowed to remove their headscarves. High walls are built around the school to protect the uncovered girls. For both boys and girls, flashy and bright colors are not permitted. Students attending the same school must all wear the same color.

Directions: Read the following excerpt from the article and answer the following questions.

Costa Rica

- 10 The literacy rate in Costa Rica is one of the highest in all Latin American countries. Ninety-six percent of all students (older than 15) have the ability to read and write.
- 11 The school year runs from February to the end of November with students having two months off for summer vacation (in December and January). The school day is usually half-day, with some grades attending in the morning and others attending in the afternoon. Teachers provide instruction for different grades and classes in the morning and afternoon. For example, one teacher might teach first grade in the morning and high school in the afternoon. Some schools are forced to combine various grades in one classroom due to a lack of space and/or funding.
- 12 Students may spend as little as three hours a day in the classroom – and at only 180 required school days, Costa Rica has one of the shortest school years in the world. There are no substitute teachers in Costa Rica. If a teacher is absent, the class does not occur. Children are expected to play or work on their lessons if their class has been cancelled.
- 13 Uniforms are required and consist of blue pants (or skirts for girls) and a white shirt. The grading system is as follows: S for Sobreasaliente (outstanding), N for Notable (good), Suf for Suficiente (passing), and I for Insuficiente (failing).

Your Turn

Directions: Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow on the next page.

What Stinks?

Opening the door into my house was like bumping into a wall of the nastiest smell in the whole world.

"Mom?" I called.

There was no answer, so I proceeded to the kitchen in search of clues. Could it be rotten food in the refrigerator? Hesitantly, I pulled the refrigerator door open, but quickly realized that the odor wasn't coming from the fridge. It was just too revolting to be rotting vegetables or rotten milk.

"Dad?" I yelled.

I was met with silence. The putrid smell seemed to be intensifying. I felt like my nose hairs were starting to singe and burn.

"Sam?" I screamed in a much more desperate tone. Surely he would be home from school. While I waited for a reply, I crept slowly down the hall towards his bedroom. Pulling the front of my shirt over my nose, I rapped on his door, quietly at first, then with more trepidation.

"Brother, you here?" I called.

Yet again, no answer.

Feeling defeated, I made my way back down the hall towards the kitchen and wondered what could be going on. The odor wasn't like anything I had ever smelled before.

Just as I placed my backpack on the back of the kitchen chair, my mom busted through the back door.

"GET OUT!" she screeched.

I didn't even have a chance to respond. She clutched my arm and virtually threw me right out the back door.

"Where have you been?" she said, with a sense of urgency in her voice.

"Um, where have you been?" I retorted, "and what's that terrible smell?"

Just then, a truck pulled up in front of the house.

"I drove to your school to pick you up because I didn't want you to come home. I must have missed you. Dad and Sam are at the neighbors," she replied.

A man appeared at the back gate.

"We're here to investigate a gas leak," he said.

"A gas leak?" I mumbled.

Wow! Gas really does stink, I thought.

The Private I's and the Case of the Big Stink

by Wendi Silvano

- 1 Inez brushed some brown hairs from her bedspread. Ivy fluffed up the pink pillow on her bed. Then she picked up the green pillow.
- 2 "Ack!" said Ivy. "This pillow smells!"
- 3 Inez took a whiff. "You're right!"
- 4 Izzy came into the bedroom. "Hey," she said, "who rolled my slippers in garbage?"
- 5 Ivy and Inez laughed.
- 6 "I'm not joking," said Izzy. "Smell them!"
- 7 Ivy smelled the slippers. "Yuck! That smells just like my pillow."
- 8 "What's going on?" said Inez.
- 9 "Something smelly is going on," said Izzy.
- 10 "But what would make my pillow and your slippers stink?" said Ivy.

- 14 “Any ideas?” she asked.
- 15 “Let’s see if anything else smells the same,” said Ivy.
- 16 “Great idea!” said Izzy.
- 17 Inez wrote: Plan 1: Sniff out the stink.
- 18 The Private I’s went to the kitchen. They sniffed the counter. They sniffed the table. They sniffed the garbage can.
- 19 “The garbage can stinks,” said Ivy, “but not in the way my pillow does.”
- 20 “Let’s try the living room,” said Izzy.
- 21 They sniffed the curtains. They sniffed the lamps. They sniffed the sofa.
- 22 “Yuck!” said Ivy. “That’s the stink, all right.”
- 23 Inez wrote: The sofa has the big stink.
- 24 “What do Ivy’s pillow, my slippers, and the sofa have in common?” said Izzy.
- 25 “They all stink,” said Ivy.
- 26 “Ha, ha,” said Izzy.
- 27 “Hey! Wait a minute,” said Inez. “All of those things are soft and cushy.”
- 28 “That’s an important clue,” said Izzy.
- 29 Inez wrote: Everything with the big stink is soft and cushy.
- 30 “My pillow is the cushiest,” said Ivy. “That’s why I like to lie on it.”
- 31 “Hmm,” said Izzy. “The pillow and the sofa are things people lie on.”
- 32 “What about the slippers?” said Inez. “People don’t lie on slippers.”
- 33 “But Baxter does,” said Ivy. “He sleeps on anything soft.”
- 34 “And look—brown hairs on my slippers!” said Izzy. “I suspect Baxter rolled in something stinky.”
- 35 “How can we check?” said Inez. “He’s gone with Mom.”
- 36 “Let’s smell his bed,” said Ivy.

44      So Izzy, Inez, and Ivy went outside. They walked around the yard, sniffing.

45      "Check out the area behind these bushes," said Izzy.

46      "That's Baxter's favorite napping spot," said Inez. "The ground there is covered with soft moss."

47      She took a whiff. "It's got the stink, all right."

48      Ivy peeked under the bushes. "There are two rotting eggs under here. They must be leftovers from our Easter-egg hunt. They're all crushed from Baxter rolling in them."

49      Just then, Mom came home with Baxter.

50      "Someone has to give this dog a bath!" said Mom. "He stinks."

Mary Jane and Her Recycled Sticks

by Marcia K. Wasson

- 1 Mary Jane woke up excited. She had barely slept the night before. Today when she got to school, she would turn in her art project. Mary Jane went downstairs, walked into the kitchen, and noticed the kitchen table had been cleaned off. The ice pop sticks and tissue paper she had left everywhere the night before were gone.
- 2 "Good morning, Mom," Mary Jane said. "Thanks for cleaning up my mess! I was going to do it this morning."
- 3 "Good morning, Mary Jane," Mom said, smiling. "I didn't clean up anything. I thought you put your supplies away after you finished your art project. Better grab some eggs and bacon. Dad and Josh will be down any minute."
- 4 Mary Jane sat down with her breakfast as her dad and older brother came into the kitchen.
- 5 "Dad, Josh, did either of you clean up the mess I left on the kitchen table last night?" Mary Jane asked.
- 6 "It wasn't me," Dad said.
- 7 "It wasn't me either," Josh added with a shrug.
- 8 "Well someone cleaned up the leftover tissue paper and broken ice pop sticks," Mary Jane said. "I didn't, and Mom said it wasn't her. I wonder what happened to them."
- 9 Suddenly Smokey, the family cat, jumped up on the table. He tried to steal a piece of bacon from Josh's plate.
- 10 "Hey!" Josh yelled. "That's mine, Smokey! Get down!"
- 11 Smokey meowed and jumped to the floor without the bite of bacon.
- 12 "Poor Smokey," Mary Jane sighed.
- 13 "Remember when Smokey would steal my toys when I was little?" Josh asked.

14        "I remember," Mom said.

15        "Me too," Dad agreed, nodding. "He drove you nuts. You would leave your jacks on the floor after playing with them, and Smokey would take several and hide them. You would have to find the missing jacks when you wanted to play again."

16        "Maybe Smokey took my leftover art project scraps," Mary Jane said. "Josh, what did he do with your toys when he took them?"

17        "He would hide them behind the big, ugly brown chair in the living room," Josh said.

18        "That chair is not ugly!" Mom scolded.

19        "OK, Mom," Mary Jane groaned. "I'm going to see if my scraps are behind it." She hopped out of her seat and ran into the next room. With a grunt, she slowly pulled out the heavy chair. "My stuff is here!" she gasped. "And here are some hair ribbons I thought I had lost along with a wash cloth I remember dropping the other day."

20        Josh poked his head into the living room. "Look, Josh," Mary Jane continued, "Smokey made a bed with the pieces of tissue paper and the wash cloth. The leftover ice pop sticks and my missing ribbons are on the floor around the bed. He probably plays with those." She laughed. "It's sort of funny when you think about it."

21        "What's funny?" Josh asked.

22        "My assignment was to reuse or recycle everyday objects and make an art project out of them. I recycled and painted the ice pop sticks and I reused the colored tissue paper to make a stained glass window. The ice pop sticks are the borders and the colored tissue paper is the glass."

23        "I still don't see why that's funny," Josh said.

24        "Smokey recycled and reused my leftovers!" Mary Jane explained. "He recycled the tissue paper and sticks that I was going to throw away! He reused the wash cloth as bedding. I never thought about animals recycling and reusing."

25        "That is funny," Dad called from the kitchen. "Now move the chair back and let's finish breakfast."

26        Mary Jane pushed the chair back in place and sat back down at the table. Smokey walked over and sat next to Mary Jane's chair and looked up at her. She leaned over and patted his head. "Thanks, Smokey," she said. "This will be a funny story to tell my teacher. And it's a great idea for another class project—what does your pet recycle and reuse?"

Excerpt from Leaving Emma

by Nancy Steele Brokaw

1 It took Tem and me two weeks to finish with North Dakota. We had to research the official state things like the bird, flower, and song, as well as the state history and what important people came from North Dakota. I drew a page-size version of the state flag that we used as a report cover.

2 We got out a ruler and measured. The distance from Fargo, N.D., to Grand Forks, N.D., was seventy-five miles. That was the same as the distance from my house in Champaign to Tem's new house, which they hadn't even bought yet, in Kankakee. We'd driven through North Dakota before, to visit my grandma. It was like driving across the moon.

Champaign and Kankakee are towns in the state of Illinois

3 The leaves were really falling, since it was the end of October. It was snowing in colors. Dad and I had always raked the leaves together. Now Mom said cleaning up the leaves was my job.

4 "Hey, Mom," I said, "since you want me to do the leaves, I was wondering if you'd mind typing our North Dakota paper? It's worth extra credit."

5 Mom was always up for typing. Before I was born, she worked as a secretary at Caterpillar, which I thought was a goofy name for a big factory.

6 "Sure," said Mom.

7 "Want to try it on the computer?" I asked.

8 "I wish I knew how," she said. "I'd love to be able to move words around and add graphs and pictures. One of these days I'll learn."

9 "You should," I said. "Anyway, I'll do the leaves and you do the typing."

10 "That's a deal," said Mom.

- 11      I got Tem to help me. We raked the leaves into little piles, and then we raked the little piles into bigger piles and finally into one big pile that we jumped in.
- 12      Sometimes when we raked, I could see my dad raking alongside us. Not the way you see people in real life or on TV, but in a different way, sort of inside my head. I needed to remember to tell Dad about this when he called.
- 13      That night I found a half-empty notebook and glued a piece of white paper on the cover. I drew a border of pens, pencils and markers. In the center, in cursive, I wrote Day by Day. At first I was going to call it Emma's Journal, but I thought "Day by Day" sounded a lot better. I didn't want to write a bunch of words, so that night I wrote just one: leaves. If I read that one word, I'd remember the rest and be able to tell Dad.
- 14      I wrote down soccer, too, because I had sort of, almost, scored a goal, and I figured Dad would want to know. Dad liked soccer a lot more than I did.
- 15      After my bath I shut the door and climbed up on my bed. I held Dad's pocket watch in my hand. It felt smooth and solid and the right amount of heavy, like a good rock. I heard the seconds ticking out the time. Time was falling away, like leaves blowing to the ground. When I wound the watch, I thought about how I wanted time to speed up to bring Dad home, and I wanted time to slow down so Tem could be my best friend longer.
- 16      It was five in the morning in Turkey. Dad would still be sleeping. I wrapped the watch in a bandanna and set it on my nightstand. I heard it ticking. I heard the wind blowing. Winter was coming, my last winter with Tem.

Excerpt from How To Convince Your Parents You Can . . . Care For A Kitten

by Stephanie Bearce

- 1        Would you like a furry pet that likes to jump, play, cuddle, and purr? If so, a kitten could be the perfect pet for you. Baby cats are called kittens, and they like to be with people. They enjoy playing games, chasing string, and batting balls with their paws. Kittens love sitting on a person's lap and being petted. They are small and like to live inside with people. Kittens make great pets.
- 2        Have your parents said that a pet would be too messy in the house? Kittens are neat and tidy animals. They do not often need a bath because they use their tongues and paws to clean their fur. Kittens are also tidy about their bathroom habits and quickly learn to use a litter box.
- 3        Do your parents say that a pet needs lots of room? Are they worried about exercising a pet? You can tell them that kittens do not need a lot of space. They are happy living in small apartments and are good pets for people who live in towns and cities. Kittens do not need to go to the park for exercise, and they do not need to be walked on a leash. They exercise by jumping and running around the house. Because they are so active, it is important to keep their play space clean and free from objects that could hurt them. Kittens must be supervised to ensure they don't tear up things they shouldn't—like furniture, carpets, or curtains.
- 4        Do your parents think it costs too much for a pet? You can tell them that kittens are not too expensive. You can adopt kittens from animal shelters, or you can look in the newspaper to find people who are giving away kittens for free. Kittens do not need lots of expensive food. Most kittens like to eat dry cat food. They only need about a cup of food a day. Kittens do need regular visits to the veterinarian. Every year your kitten will need shots to keep him or her healthy. This can cost over $100. Sometimes kittens can become ill, and they may need medicine from a veterinarian. This is another cost of having a kitten for a pet.

- 5      When kittens are happy they will purr. Purring is a deep rumbling sound in the kitten's chest. It is fun to pet a kitten and make it purr.
- 6      Petting a kitten can also make you feel better when you have had a bad day. Doctors have found that when people sit quietly and pet a kitten, their hearts beat slower. That makes their blood pressure lower, and low blood pressure is a good thing. You can tell your family that having a kitten will be good for their health.
- 7      Kittens are fun to watch. They are great athletes. This is because they have a good sense of balance. If they jump or fall, they usually land on their feet. They have special muscles that help them twist their bodies in the air. Kittens have strong leg muscles. They learn to climb and jump when they are very young.
- 8      Kittens are smart and love to learn. Sometimes people think that you cannot teach a kitten tricks. That is because kittens are independent. They like to explore on their own and do what they want. But kittens can learn rules and how to obey. You can teach your kitten to come and sit, to lie down, and maybe even how to ring doorbells and flush toilets.
- 9      Today, kittens are some of the most popular pets in the world. You can find them in apartments in New York City. You can see them in Paris, France, or on farms in Missouri. Almost anywhere there are people, you will find kittens.

32 How are paragraphs 1 through 4 alike? Use two details from "Excerpt from How To Convince Your Parents You Can . . . Care For A Kitten" to support your response.
