“Bunnyyarl the Flies and Wurrunnunnah the Bees”

1	Once there were two groups of people, the Bunnyyarl (bunny-yarl) and the Wurrunnunnah (war-a-noo-nah). They were family, and they lived in one camp. The Wurrunnunnah worked very hard. They always gathered food, even when there was already enough. They did this so that they would have enough later. The Bunnyyarl did not think about the future. They wasted their time playing. They never thought about getting enough food for later.
2	One day the Wurrunnunnah said, “Come out with us. We are going to gather honey from flowers. Soon the winter winds will blow the flowers away. Then there will be no more honey to gather.”
3	“No,” said the Bunnyyarl, “We have something to do here.” And off they went, wasting their time. They knew that the Wurrunnunnah would share their honey with them.
4	The Wurrunnunnah went alone and left the Bunnyyarl to waste their time. The Wurrunnunnah gathered the flowers and stored the honey, and never more went back to live with the Bunnyyarls, for they were tired of doing all the work.
5	As time went on the Wurrunnunnah were changed into little wild bees, and the lazy Bunnyyarls were changed into flies.

Big Red

A

Big Red was a sporty girl. She was tall and fit, and she had bright red hair. Big Red liked to go hiking and exploring because she was very curious. One day, she was in the forest and found an interesting little cabin. Smoke was rising from the chimney, and it had a sweet smell coming from the window.

B

She knocked on the door, but no one answered. Big Red knocked again, and the door opened a little. The sugary smell of maple syrup filled the air. She entered the cabin to have a look inside. She could see that no one was home. Big Red found a table with warm oatmeal and a book.

C

The sweet smell was making her mouth start to water. Big Red was hungry after her long hike. She looked down at the pot and saw warm maple syrup drizzled across the soft, steaming oats. Big Red decided to taste the oatmeal and take a peek at the book.

D

Before Big Red knew it, she had read the whole book and had eaten all of the oatmeal. Warmth from the fireplace filled the air, and she felt tired. She thought that a nap sounded perfect.

E

Next to the cozy fireplace were three comfy chairs. She thought that they looked like a perfect place to rest. She tried the first chair, but it was too soft. The second chair was too hard. The third chair, however, was just right. She found a warm blanket and snuggled up for a fireside nap.

F

"Someone ate our oatmeal!" a loud voice suddenly roared. The bear family who lived in the cabin returned home to find their door open and their bowls empty.

G

"Someone has been sitting in our chairs!" a voice screeched from the living room.

H

The baby bear saw flowing red hair peeking from under the blanket in his chair. "Someone is napping in my chair!" yelled the baby bear.

I

Big Red's screech filled the air as she burst from the chair. Thankfully, her bright red hair gave them such a scare that she was able to burst through the door and escape. Big Red lived another day and learned quite a lesson about wandering into people's houses and using their things.

No One Is Looking

A Lara was not a bad girl, but she sometimes did some bad things.

B Once, when all of the other second graders had left the classroom to go to recess, Lara stayed behind. The room, always filled with lots of children, belonged to everyone, but Lara felt that the room belonged to her since everyone had left for recess. She went behind the teacher's desk and sat in the teacher's chair. She opened one of the drawers in the teacher's desk. In one drawer of the desk, she found the teacher's stash of bright red apples, which the teacher had earned from the school for being a good teacher. Lara took one of the apples.

C Next, she climbed down from the teacher's chair and sat in William's chair. She peeked inside William's desk and took his favorite eraser. It was a green dinosaur-shaped eraser that fit on top of a pencil. She squeezed the small eraser in her hand. This is now mine, she thought.

D She got up from William's desk and went to the back of the classroom where all of the children's coats were hanging. She stopped at one jacket, a blue one with red and black plaid lining, and stuck her hand in one of the pockets. She found a small bag of candy. She took it and held it tightly in her hand.

E She became very excited to have these new items that did not belong to her. Lara was so overcome with excitement that she did not hear the teacher's second grade class lining up outside the classroom.

F "Lara!" said the teacher, surprised to see the young girl still in the classroom.

G Lara hadn't realized that the teacher and the rest of the class had returned. She was so shocked to hear her name that she jumped and threw her new possessions in the air!

H "My apple!" said the teacher.

I "My dinosaur eraser!" said William.

J "My candy!" said Jack, who owned the blue jacket.

K Lara didn't go outside for recess for the rest of the week. Instead, she stayed inside in time-out with the teacher. She was so embarrassed that she promised herself to never be so sneaky or greedy again.
